Serving Ohio as an Educational Resource in Health Care Ethics

Dear BENO Members and Friends,

I am excited to share with you the outstanding program planned for our 25th Annual Conference. The topics and presenting speakers – the result of collaboration between the planning committee and the Board – focus on such key topics as patients without proxies, anatomy of an ethics consult, and advance care planning, among others.

Be sure to share this program with your graduate students, interns, residents, fellows and colleagues. There will be time to “network” during the luncheon and throughout the day at the various breakout sessions.

Although it's still possible to register for the conference by mailing a check, you can now use a credit card by registering online at www.BENOethics.org. (Remember to REGISTER EARLY!) If you haven't renewed your membership or joined BENO yet, there is still time for you and/or your institution to become a member and SAVE on conference fees. Information on membership options is available on the website.

Knowing the benefits of BENO's ongoing educational mission, please join us on Friday, May 1st at OCLC in Columbus.

25th Annual Bioethics Network of Ohio Conference

Friday, May 1, 2015

8:00 – 8:30 am Registration and Continental Breakfast

8:30 – 8:45 am Welcome

8:45 – 9:45 am Keynote Address: “Dying with your Values on”, Charles Wellman, MD, FAAHPM, Dolores Christie, PhD.

Terminal patients often die isolated and with treatable pain and needless suffering. In the last 35 years, the modern hospice movement has made steady progress to address these issues. Even so, as we celebrate successes, there are still barriers to good quality of life before death. It’s a moral imperative to respect patient values and the choices that they dictate. Navigating the waters that separate what constitutes a morally acceptable death from one that diminishes the autonomy and choice of patients continues to be a challenge in the modern medical and legal climate.

9:45 – 10:45 am Jim Barlow Memorial Lecture: “Responding to Requests for Futile and Potentially Inappropriate Treatments”, Douglas B. White, MD, MAS

Managing requests for potentially inappropriate treatment is deceptively complex and exposes unanswered questions about the boundaries of good medical practice in patients with advanced illness. This talk will summarize the soon-to-be released guidelines from five major US and European critical care societies on how to respond to such requests and how to proceed in the face of intractable conflict.

10:45–11:00 am Break and Refreshments

11:00 – 12:15 pm Concurrent Breakout Sessions  Please choose one and enter it on the registration form

1. “Patients without Proxies: Who’s to Decide”, Barbara J. Daly, PhD, RN, FAAN

This presentation reviews the ethical norms guiding decision making for patients who lack an authorized surrogate. Advantages and disadvantages of alternative management of clinical situations lacking a proxy will be reviewed. An established procedure used at one medical center will be described and suggestions for future development of community standards discussed.

2. “Anatomy of an Ethics Consult Note: Developing Competencies”, Margot M. Eves, JD, Cristie M. Cole, JD

The American Society of Bioethics and Humanities Core Competencies for Healthcare Ethical Consultation (2nd ed) identified the ethics consult note as a key quality component of an ethics consultation service. This session focuses on the elements that should be included in a note in the medical record and provides attendees the opportunity to evaluate sample notes from real cases and formulate a note from a case presented.

3. “Continuity of Care between In-patient Palliative Care and Home Hospice”, Robert M. Taylor, MD,

Douglas E. Cluxton, MA, LPC, Lori Yosick, MSW, LISW-S, CHPC

Palliative care (PC) focuses on care for seriously ill patients while providing support and assistance with appropriate goals of care. Hospice, a specific kind of PC, provides supportive care for patients who have decided to forgo disease-directed treatment. As such, the transition to Hospice care can be painful and difficult. This session will explore the medical and ethical challenges inherent in assisting patients and families with this transition to Hospice care. In addition, it will attempt to clarify the benefits of Hospice care and the potential harms associated with inappropriately delaying the transition.

12:15 – 1:15 pm Lunch and BENO Business Meeting

1:15 – 2:30 pm Concurrent Breakout Sessions.  Please choose one and enter it on the registration form

4. “Autonomy, Capacity and Competency”, Stuart Youngner, MD

The presenter will discuss competence to accept or refuse treatment in the context of informed consent of which competency is an element. He will demonstrate how competence is socially constructed to balance two important moral principles when they conflict – autonomy and beneficence. Actual cases will be used as illustrations.

5. “Current Legal Issues in Bioethics”, Corey Perry, JD, MDiv

Given the ever-changing nature of healthcare and its delivery, jurisdictions and the society-at-large are constantly challenged to create normative standards regarding what and how these services will be delivered. Therefore, it’s critically important to attend to the legal issues that are being raised across the country, as well as within Ohio’s jurisdiction. Several of the most salient and challenging issues nationally as well as changes which have or may yet occur in Ohio will be presented.

6. “Understanding the Causes of Misperceptions about Prognosis between Clinicians and Surrogates in ICUs”,

Douglas B. White, MD, MAS

Surrogate decision makers in ICUs often have inaccurate expectations about their loved one’s prognosis, which sometimes leads to conflict with the clinical team about goals of care. These misperceptions have often been attributed to surrogates simply misunderstanding the physician’s prognostications or clinicians failing to disclose prognostic information. This talk will argue that the causes of discordant expectations about prognosis are more complex than this and will require interventions that go beyond clear communication.

7. “Advance Care Planning: Past, Present and Future”, Jeff Lyan, RN, BS, MS

This session focuses on various forms of advance planning and decision-making. Discussion will include current status of advance care planning within the state of Ohio and an update on Medical Orders for Life-Sustaining Treatment (MOLST).

2:30 – 2:45 pm Break and Refreshments

2:45 – 4:00 pm Plenary: “Values Conflicts and Ethics Consultation”, Terry M. Perlin, PhD

In the quarter century since the founding of BENO, ethics consultation has become “routine” in healthcare institutions. What’s been the impact? How does this matter? This session examines change in healthcare, including ethics committees, professional relationships, economics at the bedside and making end-of-life decisions. It will conclude with a look at how clinical ethics are evolving in the healthcare system.

4:00 – 4:15 pm Closing, Evaluations & Certificates
